His Race at Hawthorne.

He Leaves for the Chicago Track on Monday Next.

Legitimate Racing in This State Ends To-Day.

The imported mares and weanling owned by the Messrs Keene wer shipped to the farm on Thursday. E Telegrafo also went along and will be turned out. President Walbaum took his trainer's tip and invested heavily on lilume's chances in the full place books. Illume was last.

W. Kerrick has Pulsifer's horses in good shape and he seems to know where to place them. This is a quality that most trainers lack.

Pen would have won on Ornus yesterday. Littlefield had to carry overweight, and this just about beat the imported colt.

Just how the jockeys who fell in the third race at Clifton yesterday escaped being killed is miraculous, but not one of the seven with the exception of Neumeyer, is thought to be dangerously injured, and he is doing nicely. The horses were within fifty feet of the tinish when the accident occurred, and all were going at full speed. Two or three women fainted in the grand stand.

The list of winning owners at the Clifton meeting just ended is given out. George Reed heads the list with $2,40, but is closely crowded by J. De Long, F. Welch, A. Shields and the Khaftan Stable, all of whom have won over $2,000. . . .

There was no reason whatever for the wild plunge on Wrestler in the first race resterday. The horse has not shown in the hand, has shown a decided average from the weight.

He asserted that there was no police officer on board, and that the captain refused to take any steps in the matter, although he had the man who is aliesed to have taken the stud pointed out to him.

Mr. Reed said he intended to sue the Iron Steamboat Company to recover the value of the stud.

and held in $1,000 bail for examination to-day.

Then the whole story came out, John Mauderer and his wife had been growing thin and pule of late. Everybody had noticed it. Nobody knew why Now the secret was told. They were literally starving. They had succeeded in finding enough food to keep their four children out of heaven, but there was not enough for all, and the faithful parents, too proud to make their destitution known, were starving among neighbors who would have gladly helped them.

Mrs. Mauderer inid all their troubles to John's former friend, now foreman, John Raum, who had taken his work away from him three months ago.

She grew desperate. She begged Baum to intercede for her husband and give alm work again. He turned a deaf ear to her That was Thursday morning.

Think of it! The Racing Board of the L. A. W. has actually gone to work and declared Itself against the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America. There is valor for you. After years of constant and repeated violations of the rules governing amateur bleyeling the Intercollegiate wheelmen are at last called down.

lution refusing to grant any concessions to clubs belonging to the Intercollegiate Association, until the officials of that body recognize the right of the League in the premises. The Intercollegiates have so beautifully ignored the rights of the League in the past, and have so nonchalantly neglected to even admit that such an august body existed, that it will be particularly interesting and in-structive to watch the effect of this latest edict from the L. A. W.

All that remains to fill Hopkins's heart with joy is the offer of a princely purse, one that would enable him, if Dan wins, to buy the Narragansett House, at Frovidence, R. I. Then the cheruble Hopkins would probably quit pugilism.

In the proposed billiard tournament between Frank Ives, George Slosson and Jake Schaefer, a little hitch has arben as regards the part the table manufac-turers should take. Ives desires that the particular company should donate a $2,500 purse. This with the $500 stakes each player would put up, he thinks, would make a first-class plum to play for. would make a first-class plain to pay for.

But Slosson, who is older and more experienced than Ives, says: "Fiag the manufacturers. Why shouldn't we players run the affair ourselves and whatever the gate recepts are we'll divide. It's a cinch the manufacturers won't split with us." George ought to know. He's been playing for makers' purses these many years.

Dear Sir: Referring it your question in "The Evening World." "What do we hear of Illip Ernst, the lower?" I will give you a few hints. In the first round of the fight last Monday Leeds dislocated Ernst's left shoulder. After that Ernst, fought seven rounds with his right hand stone, not using his left once. That alone shows him to be Leeds's superior. After the fight Ernst dight have one acrack on his face.
